Claimants Against Realty Firm at Bankruptcy Proceedings Hear Nicholls Tell Referee How $20,000 Concern Was Reorganized Into $300,000 Company.

$100,000 PA'D FOR OLD FIRM'S GOOD WILL

Nicholls Says St. Louis Books Didn't Show What Ritter Did With Money Sent to Him for Use in New York Office Investments.

In the presence of widows, working women and other claimants against the bankrupt Nicholls-Ritter-Goodnow Realty Co., Monday, Charles C. Nicholls, president of the company, testifying for the first time before Walter D. Coles, referee in bankruptcy, told how the Nicholls-Ritter Realty and Investment Co., capitalized at $300,000, was converted into a $300,000 company without the cash investment of additional funds. Nicholls in his testimony gave the impression that he had placed implicit trust in E. P. V. Ritter, vice-president of the company, now a resident of New York City, and had sent funds of the company to Ritter for investment in the "New York office account" without knowing for what specific purpose the money was to be spent.

Ritter went to New York, Nicholls testified that Ritter went to New York about seven years ago and that, despite his absence from St. Louis, he had dominated the Nicholls-Ritter company here to such an extent that whenever he wanted money for use in the Eastern office it was sent to him without question.

In 1902, Nicholls said, he was in business for himself. He then formed a partnership with Ritter and they formed a company capitalized at $300,000. He and Ritter each had a half interest in this company, Nicholls invested the cash in it, his interest being represented by the good will which he turned over to the new company as an asset.

F. W. Lovett, who had been a bookkeeper for Nicholls, held two shares of the stock "for convenience," so that the company might have its legal quota of three directors.

$100,000 Was Borrowed. Coles asked Nicholls if any new money was placed into the new concern. Nicholls said that he and Ritter had gone to a bank and borrowed $100,000, which they paid into the new company for that amount of preferred stock. He said that the new company then paid back the $100,000 to the old company for its good will. Of the remaining $200,000 of stock, $25,000 was sold and the remainder held in the company's treasury.

Asked as to their condition when Goodnow left them, Nicholls said that they were hard-pressed for money. He said that they figured that by selling their renting department they would get some money and also reduce operating expenses. He said that by not having to attend to a rental department they would be able to give more time to the sale department and possibly bring the business back to its normal condition.

The claims against the company aggregate $200,164.54, of which more than $111,000 is unsecured. The company claims that its assets total $428,454, but experts, investigating for Referee Coles, doubt if they will actually bring as much as $200,000.

Company's Holdings. When Nicholls was asked the value of his company's holdings in the Floral Park Development Co. of New York he replied that it was flat on its back as "Interest in the Floral Park Property" — $128,165.25.

"What is the nature of the interest of the bankrupt Nicholls-Ritter Co. in the Floral Park property?" Referee Coles asked.

"I don't know just what the interest is," Ritter handled that," Nicholls replied.

"Isn't it a fact," Coles asked, "that your interest is merely a contract whereby you were to receive certain commissions for selling the property?"

"No, I think we have a definite interest. I have written to Mr. Ritter to ask him what it is," Nicholls said.

No Return Paid on Stock. Upon further examination by Attorney Case, Nicholls said that the Floral Park property represented an interest of $128,000, which the old Nicholls-Ritter Realty and Financial Co. had sold to Ritter and Goodnow Co. in 1911, with interest added. He said his books showed it had paid nothing, but he thought his New York office had received small returns from it.

He said the property is now covered by a bond issue which they are trying to refund with a new issue of bonds.

NOW WHAT IS SO RAW AS A DAY IN JUNE?

St. Louis' cool weather, which has prevailed since Saturday evening, was caused by northerly winds which came as a result of a northward storm area passing eastward and the coming in of an area of high pressure, resulting in a shift of the winds.

The lowest temperature yesterday was 58 at 5 a. m. and the highest was 66 at 4 p. m., but winds made it appear even cooler to those who remained out of the sun.

For Illinois—Fair in north portion tonight and Tuesday; unsettled in south portion; probably local showers; warmer Tuesday and in north portion tonight.

Cuban Child Is Unwilling to Surrender to Provide Cure for Tuberculosis, Youth Confesses.

HAVANA, Cuba, June 28.—The body of a white boy, 6 years old, named Manuel Villafuente, has been found at Minas Camaguey, under conditions indicating a voodoo practice. Justo Pino, a negro boy, has been arrested, and he has told the police that he killed young Villafuente at the order of his father and a negro woman, who told him the blood of the child was necessary for the cure of tuberculosis.

The negro boy added that he was afraid of the woman who was stealing his victim's heart. He asserts that a woman drank some of the blood. His father and the woman were arrested.

1016 PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF OF LINER ON ROCKS

LONDON, June 28.—The 1016 passengers on board the Anchor Line California, which went ashore last night on Tory Island in a dense fog, were transferred successfully today to the Donaghmore liner Cassandra, and a small coasting steamer without loss of life.

The crews of several British torpedo boat destroyers assisted in the operation of transferring the passengers. The California lies in a precarious position on the rocky coast, but it is expected she will be floated as soon as fine weather sets in. Her crew remains on board, although the water has penetrated three of her holds. Three hundred of the passengers of the California, whose destination was Ireland were landed here this morning.

FLEEING ELOPERS CAUGHT AS AUTO SKIDS INTO CITY

Pursuers of Youth, 16, and Girl, 20, Halted at Line, Call Policeman.

PAIR SEEKING A LICENSE

Father of John B. Carroll Jr. Has Them Freed After Arresting Arrest in Chase.

When John B. Carroll Jr., 16 years old, of 837 Berlin avenue, started out to Clayton at 5 a. m. Monday to wed Clara May Lambert, a telephone operator four years his senior, he had contemplated only a pleasant motor jaunt through the county and a surprise for his father, who is a lawyer with offices in the Carleton Building.

Three hours later he and his fiancée found themselves detained at the Page Boulevard Station, having been arrested at his father's telephonic request, after an automobile chase from St. Charles to Wellston. They had tried in two county seats—Clayton and St. Charles—and had failed to be married.

The couple are employed in the offices of the International Life Insurance Co., 725 Chestnut street. Carroll's parents never heard of the girl. Young Carroll makes $5 a month.

Used Father's Automobile. The boy took his father's automobile early in the morning, and called for his fiancée at her boarding house, 419 Washington boulevard. At Clayton Carroll said he was 22 and his fiancée 19. Marriage License Clerk Henry Ahlcrs, doubting his word, asked him when he was born. "In 1883," Carroll replied. If that were true he would be 31 years old. Ahlcrs refused to issue the license.

Carroll inquired the road to St. Charles, saying he intended to be married at once, and that it was a secret. While Carroll was on his way a reporter notified the elder Carroll, who was at his law office. The lawyer telephoned St. Charles and learned a marriage license had been issued a few moments before by County Clerk Henry C. Sanford. "His only 16," the father said.

The County Clerk ran down the courthouse hallway and overtook the couple, who were entering the Sheriff's office, where the marriage was to be performed by J. W. Bruns, Justice of the Peace and County Clerk.

License Is Recovered. "There's an error in that license, so let me see it again," the County Clerk said. Carroll, who had given his age as 21, said he had not applied elsewhere for a license, handed it back. He then was told that his father had telephoned, forbidding the marriage.

Lawyer Carroll, upon second thought, telephoned again, saying his son had stolen his auto and ordering his arrest. The boy was speeding into St. Louis County when a Deputy Sheriff started in pursuit. Deputy Sheriff Julius Schenkel, notified by telephone, was waiting at Wellston when young Carroll sped up. He started to arrest him when the machine skidded across the Suburban car tracks, passing the county line into the city jurisdiction. Schenkel halted a patrolman, who took the elopers to the police station.

The elder Carroll called at the station, got his automobile, consulted the Police Captain and then told his son to make his own way in the world. The boy and his fiancée left the station together, saying they still intended to be married.

POLLS OPEN 13 HOURS TOMORROW FOR CHARTER VOTE

Citizens Will Have From 6 A. M. 7 P. M. to Cast Ballots for New Code.

LEADERS EXPECT VICTORY

Campaign Committee Files Affidavit Alleging Fraudulent Registration.

The fate of the proposed new city charter will be decided by the voters of St. Louis tomorrow.

The polls will be opened at 6 a. m. in each of the 474 voting precincts and closed at 7 p. m. Voters will have 13 hours in which to go to the polls and cast their votes on the charter.

Only a majority of the votes cast is required to adopt the charter. An erroneous impression has been created that a three-fifths or two-thirds majority is necessary.

Every registered voter is entitled to a vote at the charter election. A request was issued by the Charter Campaign Committee Monday that every supporter of the new charter go to the polls as early as possible and cast his vote in favor of its adoption.

Hard Fight in River Wards. The campaign leaders said that sentiment west of Grand avenue was found to be almost unanimous for the charter. It is expected that the charter will get more than an even break in several of the river wards, where the hardest fight is being made against it.

The Socialists, in connection with some of the Socialist labor leaders, are maintaining an anti-charter organization, and Henry W. Kolchak, a North St. Louis brewer, has financed the distribution of some anti-charter literature.

Frederick N. Judson, member of the Board of Freeholders, said he thought the interest that had been aroused in the charter would bring out a vote of probably 120,000 at the election. The bigger the vote, the more certain is the success of the charter, in the opinion of the campaign managers.

In order to prevent fraud, if possible, the Campaign Committee has offered a reward of $100 for any information of probable work on the part of any election judge or clerk, or any voter.

The committee also filed with the Board of Election Commissioners an affidavit stating that it had discovered evidence of fraudulent registration.

Give Irregularities Alleged. The affidavit was made by Leon G. Achard, who investigated a charge of fraudulent registration in the Seventh precinct of the Fifth Ward. Secretary Jones of the Campaign Committee requested the Board of Election Commissioners to make an immediate investigation.

Achard stated in his affidavit that he had found that five names were on the registration books from 1008 Franklin avenue, which should not be there.

One of the names registered from the rooming house is that of Arthur Franklin. Achard said he found that Franklin was not living at the house June 15, the day of registration, and was not entitled to be registered from that address.

Another name on the registration books is that of Smyth McKnight. Achard swore he could not find any such person living at that address. Thomas O'Neill's name also was placed on the registration books, but Achard said he found that O'Neill moved away two months before registration day.

Another name on the registration books is that of John L. Lillian. Achard said he found that Lillian moved away two months before registration day.

The charter campaign managers fear many fraudulent names have been placed on the registration books in the river wards, and an effort will be made to vote these names against the charter.

More than 50 ministers and priests, from their pulpits Sunday, urged the voting members of the congregations to vote for the new charter.

The campaign will be closed Monday night. Tuesday, the Campaign Committee will direct its energies toward getting friends of the charter to the polls, watching the count on the ballots and to such emergency work as may arise.

Announcement of Promotion to Command Atlantic Fleet to Be Made Soon.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—After serving in Mexican waters more than a year, during which he directed the occupation of Vera Cruz, Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher reported to Secretary Daniels today and later was received by President Wilson. He reached Washington last night aboard the dispatch boat Dolphin.

Fletcher was greeted warmly by the President, who told him he greatly admired his conduct at Vera Cruz and that of all the officers named under him.

Secretary Daniels has chosen Fletcher to succeed Rear Admiral Badger as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, and it is expected the recommendation for the promotion will be made to the President during the officer's furlough in Washington.

Attachment Is Filed AGAINST MRS. L. H. LEMP

She Is Alleged to Owe the Law Firm of Leahy, Saunders and Barth $5200.04.

An attachment was filed Monday in the Circuit Court against Mrs. Lillian Handlan Lemp, divorced wife of William J. Lemp, president of the Lemp Brewing Co., alleging that Mrs. Lemp owes the law firm of Leahy, Saunders and Barth $5200.04. All efforts on the part of the law firm to reach Mrs. Lemp have failed. Mrs. Lemp lives at the St. Regis Apartments, but all officers who called said they were told she was not at home.

Alfred Kehde, associated with the law firm, in an affidavit, stated that Mrs. Lemp had concealed herself for the purpose of avoiding payment to the law firm.

The attachment was filed to force Mrs. Lemp to appear in court. She owns property at Third and Pine streets which will satisfy the judgment if she fails to appear.

Associated with Leahy, in her divorce suit, was the late Judge Daniel Dillon. Mrs. Dillon has a claim against Mrs. Lemp for $200. Mrs. Lemp, in an answer last November, stated that her lawyers, Leahy and Dillon, agreed to take anything the Court allowed and that Leahy accepted $3000 and divided it with Dillon.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Lemp was taken to the Supreme Court, where she obtained $100.00 gross alimony.

Archduke Knew His Danger. Archduke Francis Ferdinand, it is asserted today, was well aware of the danger he was running during his tour of Bosnia, which he undertook as Inspector-General of the forces of the empire. This title was conferred upon him last year by Emperor Francis Joseph. His chief task was to inspect the Austrian army, which he guarded the Serbian frontier during the recent Balkan wars and prevented any encroachments by Serbian troops.

Students Are Arrested. Gahrinovic, it was learned today, had been wounded by the bomb in the first attack, was today pronounced out of danger, while the injury sustained by Count Von Boos-Waldeck is said to be insignificant.

The bomb is believed, from fragments found, to have been made of a heavy glass bottle, filled with steel and lead pieces and an explosive.

According to the semi-official report of the tragedy, when Gavro Princip, the young assassin fired the fatal shots, Field Marshal Oskar Potiorek, Governor of Bosnia, was seated in the Archduke's motor car. Count Francis Von Harrach was standing on the footboard of the car, acting as a shield to the occupants, of whom he constituted himself the special bodyguard after the bomb had been thrown a short time before by Nedeljko Gahrinovic.

The Archduke was joking with the Count about his precautions when the reports of several shots sounded from the opposite side to that where Von Harrach stood.

One report says the assassin stepped upon the footboard of the car. The aim of the assassin was so true that each of the bullets inflicted a mortal wound.

For an instant after the attack, Field Marshal Potiorek thought the Archduke and the Duchess seated opposite him had again escaped. Neither the Archduke nor the Duchess uttered a sound, but a moment afterward it was said they had been hit.

SARAJEVO, BOSNIA, June 29.—Martial law was proclaimed today both in the city and the district of Sarajevo in consequence of the assassination yesterday of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg, his consort.

Death masks of the Archduke and the Duchess were taken today and the bodies placed on a catafalque in the chapel of the Palace and surrounded by a magnificent display of wreaths and other floral emblems from all parts of the country.

The bomb thrown by Nedeljko Gahrinovic is reported to have been made at the Serbian gun factory at Kragujevats and the belief generally held is that the crime was planned at Belgrade, the Serbian capital.

CARRANZA PLAYS FOR TIME BEFORE HIS MEN CONFER

Rebel Leader Wants Day or Two More to Consult With Generals.

MAY BREAK WITH VILLA

Commander Cuts Off Ammunition Supply From Pancho, Forces His Return.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Carranza's request for more time to consult his military chiefs over the proposal for a conference with Huerta's delegates at Niagara Falls served today as another pause for delay in efforts to restore order in Mexico through diplomacy. It was believed the mediators would be able to reply to the revolutionary leader's request within the next day or two.

The mediators were informed by Carranza that acceptance of any suggestion for a new provisional government which would be discussed at the proposed conference might require some change in the plan of Guadalupe which was the revolutionary declaration of principles. To do that, Carranza stated, would require the consent of his various military chiefs. He was said to have given assurances that the council of generals would be hastened so that a definite policy on the proposed meeting at Niagara could be reached.

Would Keep Up Campaign, Anyway. Some of the revolutionary representatives here declared Carranza had come to look with favor toward the conference, but others were not certain of the outcome. The latter asserted that whatever course was taken along lines of diplomacy, the military campaign would not be halted. As a quick sequel to the battle of Zacatecas, the revolutionary agents were jubilant over reports that Huerta's forces had evacuated Aguas Calientes, where, it had been feared, they would make desperate resistance.

The next goal in the southern campaign, it was said, would be San Luis Potosi and Queretaro. A perplexing element was injected into the situation here today by the apparent disagreement among Carranza's Washington agents over recent inter-disputes that threatened to upset relations between the two Constitutional leaders. Reports from the border quoted the "first chief" as having declared that the "Constitutionalist party has nothing to fear except from the Judases in its own ranks." The report recalled the recent statement attacking Gen. Angeles which was authorized by Alfredo Breceda, Carranza's personal aid, now in Washington. There was some disagreement among members of the junta over the question of giving out that statement.

Break Between Carranza and Villa Is Imminent.

EL PASO, Tex., June 29.—Lack of ammunition has blocked Gen. Villa's march toward Mexico City. Fresh from his victory last week at Zacatecas, he returned to Torreon with his entire army.

The relations of the Northern zone commander with Gen. Villa, in the opinion of agents here today, unquestionably caused the abandonment of the campaign. The much-discussed Carranza-Villa estrangement has reached a breaking point, they asserted. Carranza's Constitutional commander-in-chief has declined to allow Villa to import cartridges for his men, and shells for his artillery through the port of Tampico. This port of Tampico now is the only entry way for munitions which the revolutionists may use, as the border still is closed to them by the embargo of the United States border patrol.

At Zacatecas, Gen. Villa shot away practically all the cargo of the Anillo, which landed at Tampico, according to his representatives here. Carranza men, however, declare Villa did not get the Anillo ammunition, which, they declare, is still in Monterrey.

News of Villa's return north yesterday was received here.

CARRANZA JOKES AT MEDIATION

Crowd Cheers as He Calls It Failure and Claims General Support.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MONTERREY, June 29.—Cheered by a large crowd, Carranza on Saturday handed the entire Mexican situation without gloves, declaring emphatically that he would not brook any interference by the United States in internal affairs and ridiculing mediation as a failure.

The chief was the principal figure at a banquet given by the citizens of Monterrey at a suburban park. There were few Americans present.

The speech indicated that the Constitutionalists will finally spurn mediation as long as the United States continues to force themselves to internal mediation. Carranza also referred to the Villa split, saying:

"We have reached that point where Mexico has nothing to fear except from the Judases among the Constitutionalists."

Some of Carranza's friends insist that he referred to former War Minister Angeles, whom he deposed for declining to take orders from the head of Villa. Carranza began his speech as he usually does, by telling of his early and humble start in Coahuila with a small band of followers.

"At that time," he said, "I had no intention of becoming the first chief of the revolution, but the usurper Huerta forced me to do so. At first neither the United States nor the European powers would give us any attention. They rather laughed at us. I asked the United States repeatedly to let us not come and ammunition from them was refused. It was the strong arm of the weak."

Ten Reasons Why the New Charter Should Be Adopted

And Ten Reasons Why the Old One Should Be Discarded

Vote for the NEW Charter Because—

1. It provides for Home Rule of police, excise and elections.
2. It establishes the eight-hour law in public work.
3. It creates a Public Safety Department empowered to take effectual measures to protect life, limb and property.
4. It creates a Public Welfare Department, in which are concentrated all branches of the government dealing with sanitation, health, recreation and the relief of poverty and disease.
5. It enables the city to make needed improvements on a system of special assessment which equitably distributes the cost, according to benefits, at the least possible expense and inconvenience to the taxpayers.
6. It gives the people the power to insure good laws and defeat bad laws through easier conditions of initiative and referendum.
7. It gives the people the power to remove negligent, incompetent, misrepresentative and corrupt public officers before the expiration of their terms of office.
8. It concentrates power and responsibility for the conduct of the government upon a few officials, who can be held to strict accountability by the people.
9. It breaks the power of the political bosses by substituting the merit for the spoils system.
10. It breaks the power of the Big Chief by giving the people control of all public utilities by regulation, or by construction, purchase, ownership and operation of public utilities such as street railways, telephones, gas and electric power and light. It enables the city to supply all the needs of the people. It enables the city to construct or acquire utility plants with bonds issued on the property and the earnings, thus relieving the taxpayers of the burden.

Vote Against the OLD One Because

1. It does not provide for Home Rule.
2. It perpetuates an antiquated, cumbersome, irresponsible and costly form of government.
3. It hampers public improvements and compels the taxing of the whole city for all public improvements except streets and sewers. Its taxing system is impracticable and unjust.
4. It maintains the spoils system and packs the city hall with incompetents and barnacles.
5. It makes it difficult for the people to initiate and pass good measures and to defeat bad measures. The percentages for the initiative and referendum are high.
6. It does not permit citizens to remove unfit and corrupt officials.
7. It permits only individuals and private corporations to utilize franchises and to own and operate public utilities.
8. It does not give the city control of public utilities.

Pickets Prevent Workmen From Entering Plant on Last Day of Ultimatum.

PITTSBURGH, June 29.—Disorder broke out among the striking Westinghouse employees in East Pittsburgh today. Pickets surrounded all entrances to the electric works and prevented persons from entering. Office men, foremen and even superintendents were not permitted to cross the bridge and the presence of no armed guards from the plant had no effect on the excited crowds. Deputy Sheriffs failed to quiet the people and the local police could do nothing.

Sheriff G. W. Richards then went to East Pittsburgh and said he would deal by noon whether to summon troops. Striking employees of the Union Switch & Signal Co. returned to work today.

This was the last day on which the electric machine works strikers were to consider themselves employees if they did not return to work, according to the company's announcement.

LEE MERIWETHER INDORSES CHARTER IN NOONDAY TALK

Lee Meriwether, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Twelfth District, speaking at the noonday charter meeting at Eighth and Locust streets Monday, strongly indorsed the new city charter, and urged all citizens to vote for it at the election Tuesday.

Meriwether said he had been advised by some of his Democratic friends not to attend the meeting and speak for the charter, as it might injure his chances for the nomination. He declared that regardless of whatever effect it might have on his candidacy he was for the charter.

"There are thousands of dead children in the cemeteries of St. Louis because we have had bad government at the city hall," he said. "I hope to see the time come when no man will ask what is the politics of the Mayor of this city. We have had bad government at the city hall because there has been too much national politics mixed into municipal elections. I would rather see a good Republican at the city hall as Mayor than a bad Democrat, but as I am a Democrat, of course, under present conditions I would rather have a Democrat."

"I know most of the members of the Board of Freeholders, and I know they are honest men, and that they tried to write a charter that would give St. Louis the best possible government. Therefore, I am going to vote for the new charter tomorrow, regardless of what my Democratic friends think of my course."

The large store room was crowded throughout the meeting. Former Judge Caulfield spoke for some time, showing how under the economies provided by the new charter the cost of the city government would be reduced, and taxes lowered.

Selden P. Spencer said the limit of taxation possible under the constitution was $2.44. He said that the charter provided so many devices for saving money that the taxes were certain to be lowered, instead of increased. The cost of making out special tax bills for street sprinkling is $26,000 a year under the old system, but this would be eliminated by the new charter which provides that the city shall do its own sprinkling. He said the city could make a saving of $100,000 a year by purchasing supplies in quantities under the new charter, instead of at retail as under the old.

Police officers in attack. Spencer explained the eight-hour work day provisions of the new charter, and said that these provisions were entirely satisfactory to Charles Hertenstein, union labor representative on the Board of Freeholders. Judge Spencer also pointed out the errors in the arguments that William Marion Reedy has been making against the charter, relative to taxation.

Reedy charged, he said, that taxpayers would be compelled to pay for public improvements regardless of whether they were up to the specification of a section from the charter. He said that taxpayers are required only for the value of the work done according to specifications. Auctions would be made according to the old.

HEIR TO THRON OF AUSTRIA LITTLE EXPERIENCE

Not Much Is Known of Charles Francis Joseph Political Learning

EFFECT OF THE TR

Assassination of Francis and Thrown Government on Aged Emper

By Associated Press. VIENNA, June 29.—The Sarajevo yesterday, in which duke Francis Ferdinand and were assassinated, is bound momentous political effect on monarchy. The situation of the equally tragic death of Francis Ferdinand, when he was presumptive, was as complex known as is Archduke Charles. The difference, that Emperor Francis then had prospects of many to reign. Now, as the Emperor's man, the empire must, in its short time, be governed by an inexperienced Prince, instead of with 35 years close acquaintance with state affairs, and second choice to the Emperor himself.

Burdens on Aged Emperor. Archduke Francis Ferdinand becoming heir to the throne, he had to be trained on behalf of his children. The necessary because Austrian bar the offering of moral training becoming rulers of a try. No such disqualification under the Hungarian laws as event of the division of the archy without such voluntary might succeed to the throne.

The death of Francis will throw all burdens upon the aged Emperor and moment it is next to impossible to predict what political result follow yesterday's tragedy. The late Archduke held a strong personality and enormous influence in every of political, military and navy. He possessed a temperamental energy and had strong Catholic. He was bitterly Hungarian and all separatist. He was in favor of the restoration of power of the Emperor. He made him unpopular with the dangerous Italian alliance and to have looked to an ally. Southern Slav races to counter-garian influence.

Whether this was true or not, certainly was anxious to Austrian influence in the Balkans. He worked energetically with view, which is held as explanation antagonism toward him. Little is known of Archduke Francis Joseph's political life. It is supposed that, with the loss of such strong personality, may soon enter upon a period of quietude than she would have ended under Archduke Francis.

HEIR TO THRONE OF AUSTRIA HAS LITTLE EXPERIENCE

Not Much Is Known of Archduke Charles Francis Joseph's Political Leanings.

EFFECT OF THE TRAGEDY

Assassination of Francis Ferdinand and Throws Government Burdens on Aged Emperor.

VIENNA, June 29.—The tragedy at Sarajevo yesterday, in which the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife were assassinated, is bound to have a momentous political effect on the dual monarchy. The situation produced by the equally tragic death of Archduke Rudolph repeats itself today. Archduke Francis Ferdinand, when he became heir presumptive, was as comparatively unknown as is Archduke Charles, the heir apparent today, but with this important difference, that Emperor Francis Joseph then had prospects of many years still to reign. Now, as the Emperor is an old man, the empire must, in a comparatively short time, be governed by an inexperienced Prince, instead of a ruler with 20 years close acquaintance with state affairs, and second only in influence to the Emperor himself.

Burdens on Aged Emperor.—Archduke Francis Ferdinand, on becoming heir to the throne, formally renounced all title to the throne on behalf of his children. This was necessary because Austrian laws forbade the offspring of morganatic marriages becoming rulers of the country. No such disqualification exists in the event of the division of the monarchy without such voluntary renunciation the son of Francis Ferdinand might succeed to the Hungarian throne.

The death of Francis Ferdinand will throw all burdens of government upon the aged Emperor and at the moment it is next to impossible to predict what political results will follow yesterday's tragedy.

Had Strong Personality.—The late Archduke held a tremendous influence in every department of political, military and naval affairs. He possessed a temperament of fiery energy and had strong clerical sympathy. He was bitterly opposed to Hungary and all separatist movements. He was in favor of the restoration of temporal power of the Pope, which made him unpopular with Italy, endangered Italian alliance and is believed to have looked to an alliance with Southern Slav races to counteract Hungarian influence.

Whether this was true or not, he certainly was anxious to increase Austrian influence in the Balkans and worked energetically with that aim in view, which is held as explaining Serbian antagonism toward him.

Little is known of Archduke Charles Francis Joseph's political leanings, but it is supposed that with the disappearance of such strong personality, Austria may soon enter upon a period of greater quietude than she would have experienced under Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

Heir to Throne and His Consort Slain by Assassin in Bosnia Street; Their Children

stated, where the Emperor was joined by Archduke Francis Salvador and by his only daughter, the Archduchess Maria Valeria.

It is said that the Duchess was ignorant of being wounded and died of internal bleeding. She supported her husband when dying herself.

Both the murderer and Gavrilo Princip expressed themselves to the police in the most cynical fashion about their crime. The latter confessed that the bomb did not explode, whereupon Princip drew a revolver and shot three times at the royal couple. The first shot hit the Archduke in the neck, the second in the leg, while the third hit his wife in the abdomen.

Gov. Potiorek, who was accompanying the Archduke and Duchess in the automobile, had them at once conveyed to his official residence. Both were past human aid. After receiving the last sacrament, the Duchess expired. The Archduke succumbed a few minutes later.

Archduke Was Warned Against Making Visit to Bosnia.

VIENNA, June 29.—Before the Archduke went to Bosnia last Wednesday, the Serbian Minister at Vienna expressed doubt as to the wisdom of such a journey, saying that the country was in a very turbulent condition and that the Serbian part of the population might organize a demonstration against the Archduke. The Minister said if the Archduke went certainly he ought to leave his wife at home, as Bosnia was no place for women in its present disturbed state.

Before their departure for Sarajevo the Archduke and Duchess went to the chapel of their Vienna palace and spent a long time in prayer before the altar. The Archduke had declared more than once recently his conviction that he would not die a natural death.

Gov. Potiorek, who was accompanying the Archduke and Duchess in the automobile, had them at once conveyed to his official residence. Both were past human aid. After receiving the last sacrament, the Duchess expired. The Archduke succumbed a few minutes later.

ROYAL PLANS DEFEATED

She Held Her Fiance True to His Pledge Through 12 Years Before He Could Wed Her.

VIENNA, June 29.—In the circles of royalty the Duchess of Hohenberg was a Cinderella transformed by the magic wand of love to the highest grandeur and magnificence. She appealed with an especial romantic interest to Americans. She was a girl of good birth, as was her husband, although not good enough to wed with royalty, as royalty thought. She was modest, unsophisticated and carefully educated for the conventional life of the Austrian Court—the most conventional in Europe, with the exception of that in Spain, upon which it is modeled. A more unlikely place than either court could scarcely be found for a girl to make an advantageous marriage or a man to find a wife. The growth of unworshipful love. The difference in rank among the nobility themselves create barriers well nigh impossible for marriage unless accompanied by extraordinary wealth as one might call it. And royal blood is sealed with a medieval reverence long since dead and gone elsewhere in Europe.

Sophie von Chotek, who became the Duchess of Hohenberg, was not an actress or a prima donna. She was not a Pompadour, a Dubarry, or a Mary Gwynne. When Archduke Francis Ferdinand fell in love with her she was not beautiful and she was not rich.

Motherless at 18.—A motherless girl at 18, she had been since that time eating and living in an exacting position as companion, or hostess, in the household of royalty—about the only conventional way open to women of good birth who do not wish to take the veil. But at the age of 22 she made one of the most brilliant marriages in all history and became as much the legal wife of the future ruler of the dual monarchy as was possible with the rites of the Catholic church and the decrees of the Imperial Parliament.

The marriage could not have been more perfect. The bride was a girl of noble birth and her husband had been simple before. And, on the other hand, the wife's position could not have been legally more secure if she had been born an Archduchess.

It was a sweet, old-fashioned love story, such as we are accustomed to think comes true only in our own democratic circles.

This gentle Bohemian girl upset all the preconceived ideas of the marriage of Princesses with their pompous family councils to weigh the microscope of differences in royal lineage and inherited fortune, and their solemn purporters of statecraft.

"Intellectual Proletariat"

Bosnia Trouble-Makers

Dr. John C. Schwagerl, Consul for Austria-Hungary at St. Louis, is particularly familiar with conditions in Bosnia, in the capital of which, Sarajevo, Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife were assassinated.

"Bosnia is a Balkan province, and conditions change rapidly among the Balkan races. I note that the assassin who fired the fatal shots was a student," he said.

"One of the troubles of our country is that we have so many educational institutions that we acquire a large percentage of half-educated men, who will not engage in business, and for whom there are not enough Government jobs. These men turn to politics, and are constantly causing trouble. We call them 'intellectual proletariat'."

other Empress Eugenie, commanding a crown or a war as she would a new dress.

The Duchess of Hohenberg had been trained in too severe a school and too illustrious a school of statesmen. Her father was alive during eight of the 13 years of her betrothal to her husband and he devoted his last years to preparing her for her future position. She was deeply versed in political history and she knew every phase of the intricate problems which would have confronted her husband when he ascended the throne. She would have had every prerogative of power which many an Empress consort has never actually possessed.

Francisco Ferdinand was a quiet, unassuming man who never took the trouble to have denied for him multitude of youthful escapades with which he was credited, but seldom ever guilty, and he never took the trouble to advertise his ability in many scientific lines. Of all the men who were heirs to European thrones, he probably was the least known. He had a very real and a very great influence in the military affairs of the empire, but even in that he was extremely careful to keep himself in the background.

He was not a familiar figure in Vienna, that city of types, where one-half of the population when it walks abroad knows the other half by sight. Naturally, his sturdy figure in the blue-green uniform of the Alpine Jager, which he generally wore, the deep-set blue eyes and the close-cropped hair, cut in the fashion which has been copied by the Austrian lieutenants, were well known from the many functions at which he represented the Emperor.

TERRIER BITES GUARD WHO INTERRUPTS BATH

Arthur Wuthenow, 17 years old, of 423 McRee avenue, thought the lake in Tower Grove Park would be fine Sunday bathing place for his bull terrier.

Leon Levin of 1105 Biddle street, a party employee, saw the boy throw the dog in the lake and entered a protest. While Levin was arguing about it, the dog bit him on the right knee.

Levin was taken to a dispensary, where it was said the wound was not dangerous, but as a precaution the police ordered Wuthenow to keep the dog tied for 10 days. Levin estimated the troopers' damage at $1.

MISSING HALF OF BIBLE

STORY TABLET IS FOUND

Second Fragment Is Expected to Contain Reference to Eve.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—The missing half of the clay tablet, the other half of which, as translated by Dr. Stephen Langdon of Jesus College, Oxford, told of the flood and the escape of Noah, and how the fall of man ensued through his temptation by the river god Enki to eat of the tree of life, has been found in the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The university authorities made this announcement last night and said the tablet, which was discovered among the thousands of tablets in the Nipper collection, would be sent at once to Dr. Langdon for translation.

Nothing was said or intimated about Eve or any other woman in connection with the fall of man on the first fragment and Dr. Langdon expressed regret that the tablet was broken "in the most important place."

PIG'S CORNEA ON BOY'S EYE PROVES A FAILURE

It Becomes Clouded After Giving Sight for Two Months to Pittsburgh Child.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—The rosy hope that little David Kane, the infant son of David Kane of Pittsburgh would be able to see out of the pig's cornea which had been grafted onto his orb, has been blasted. A message to the Baltimore hospital where the operation was performed about three months ago, announces that the cornea, which had remained clear for about two months, had again become clouded and sight had again failed. The message, however, said that the operation had strengthened the sight of the other eye, which had been very weak. The case attracted the attention of the medical profession of the country. Tests made a few days before the boy left for his home caused the physicians to believe that the operation would be a success. The doctor who performed the operation expressed the fear that the eye might again become clouded.

LORIMER RECEIVER TO TELL WHO GOT INTEREST "SPLIT"

Will Reveal to Whom Bank Paid 34 Per Cent on Chicago City Deposits.

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 28.—The City Council today assumed a share in the inquiry into the conduct of the closed La Salle Street Trust and Savings Bank, which is under investigation by the State and national governments.

The Council has appointed a committee to find out to whom was paid the "split" from the interest on city funds carried by the suspended bank.

The sum involved is said to be $782. The bank paid 34 per cent interest on city deposits. The city was paid 24 per cent and some unidentified city official is said to have received the remaining three-quarter per cent as a perquisite.

Officers to Appear. Officers of the bank, including C. B. Munday, its vice-president, were summoned to appear before the Council Committee. City financial officials also called.

W. C. Niblack, receiver of the suspended bank, said that the person who received the "split" check would be made known at the Council Committee meeting.

State and Federal grand juries will assemble in two weeks to hear the evidence in the matter of the insolvency of the bank. Inquiry into the transactions of the Lorimer-Munday string of enterprises continued today.

Bank Run Is Resumed. Three hundred persons, mostly foreigners, were in line when the North Avenue State Bank opened its doors today and the run began Saturday was resumed.

Publicity attending the failure of the Lorimer-Munday banks is held responsible. On Saturday the North Avenue Bank paid out $250,000 and when the doors opened today $500,000 in currency, loaned by the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, the largest banking institution in the city, was piled in plain sight to reassure depositors.

President Reynolds of the Continental and Commercial said that the North Avenue Bank was perfectly solvent and that all the funds necessary would be given to meet the extraordinary and uncalculated drain.

MRS. GARDNER WITNESS REGARDING DIVORCE SUIT

Attorney for Mrs. Georgiana Miller's Children Tries to Show Collusion.

The troubles of Mrs. Georgiana Miller of 585 Maple avenue, who recently regained control of an estate left to her by her husband, were aired again before Judge Wurdeman at Clay-ton, Monday, by John S. Leahy, attorney, representing her daughter and son.

Leahy asked Mrs. Miller to testify that she had not been paid $2000 to drop the alienation suit. She said Gardner had agreed to pay her that much alimony.

The case was continued again until Wednesday.

NORMAL SCHOOL BURNS IN PITTSBURG; ONE DEAD

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 28.—Rex R. Tanner, principal of the high school at Weir, Kan., was killed and four other men received slight injuries as a result of a fire that destroyed the main building of the Pittsburgh State Normal School here today. The property loss was estimated at $150,000.

Mr. Tanner, who was a student at the summer session of the school, was standing near the burning building when a broken electric wire swung around him, killing him instantly.

The origin of the fire is not known positively, but it is believed it started when lightning struck the building.

GEN. EVANS MUST EXPLAIN

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Brigadier-General Evans' speech at Governor's Island, Saturday night, in which he referred to the Monroe doctrine and was quoted as having said the United States was the most meddlesome of nations, is to be the subject of official inquiry.

President Wilson today called upon Secretary Garrison to require an explanation from the General.

TRANSATLANTIC FLYER IN THIRD SEVERE STORM

"America" Pelted With Inch and Half Hailstones, Blown From Cradle.

HAMMONDSPORE, N. Y., June 26.—A fierce storm of wind, rain and hail again threatened to destroy the Rodman Wanmaker transatlantic flyer here yesterday and only the hardest work on the part of the custodians saved it. No flying was possible. Three violent blows and several ordinary storms in the last week have given the America severe tests than those to which Glenn H. Curtiss and Lieut. Porte have subjected it. The craft has suffered no real damage. Some of the hailstones with which the airship was pelted yesterday measured more than an inch and a half in diameter and weighed nearly two ounces. The America, despite her numerous anchors and the efforts of Mr. Curtiss and his man, was lifted from her cradle and flung about roughly. Her construction proved substantial enough to save her, however.

The only change made today to the America's hull was the addition of a small hydroplane board under the end of the tail, which Lieut. Porte thinks will further improve her action in the water.

GIANT FLY WHEEL BURSTS; BUILDING PARTLY WRECKED

Stifel Brewery Refrigerating Plant Flooded With 40,000 Pounds of Liquid Ammonia.

SIX EMPLOYES ESCAPE

Immense Sections of Steel Crash Through Walls in Accident Which Lacks Explanation.

The refrigerating plant of Otto F. Stifel's Union Brewery, 3128 Gravois avenue, was partly wrecked at 1:25 a. m. Monday by the terrific force of the bursting of an 80-ton fly wheel in the engine room.

The steel wheel, which was 34 feet in diameter and 18 inches thick, was a part of the ammonia compressing apparatus. It ordinarily made 60 revolutions a minute.

From a cause not explained by those in charge, the wheel suddenly began to revolve several times its normal speed. Harry Besse, the engineer, tried to

Girls of Roosevelt Club Who Helped to Save the Babies

Standing—Alice Stafford and Ethel Downes. Sitting—Jeannette Gelhausen, Vera Bersek and Marguerite Weber.

shut off the steam valve which controlled the wheel, but was unable to do so at his first attempt, and was afraid to remain longer.

Another big section went directly up, through the four-inch concrete ceiling, wrecked tanks containing 40,000 pounds of liquid ammonia, broke two steam pipes and went on through the roof of the condensing room.

Other sections pierced the six-inch brick wall, leaving a jagged hole as large as a window, and fell in the drive way outside. Some parts struck the steel girder above the condensing machinery and twisted it like a rod of tin.

The escaping ammonia and steam flooded the plant. The engineer and five other employees who were in the building escaped without injury.

Estimated Loss Over $50,000. Philip Schuermann, superintendent, estimated the loss at more than $50,000. He said the ammonia alone, at 2 cents a pound, was worth $11,600. The flywheel was insured for $25,000, covering the loss of the wheel and damage which might be inflicted by its bursting.

Great damage was done to other delicate and costly machinery, the superintendent said.

2 ON MOTOR CYCLE RIDE HEADLONG INTO CAR

Arm of One Rider Broken While the Other Loses Several Teeth.

Charles and Arthur Mueller, brothers, 18 and 14 years old, of 2012 North Broadway, are in the city hospital suffering from serious injuries inflicted when they rode headlong in a motor cycle into a McKinley line car, at Twelfth and Benton streets, Sunday evening.

Charles was steering the machine and Arthur was on the tandem seat. They were riding east on Benton street.

The cycle struck the car near the front entrance, and the riders were hurled back against the curb.

Charles' left arm was broken, and several of Arthur's teeth were knocked out, while both suffered a number of cuts and bruises. The machine went under the car, and was wrecked.

MAN HIT BY DIVER'S TOE MAY LOSE EYE

Nail Cuts Eyeball of Thomas E. Burns as He Aids Friend to Spring.

Thomas E. Burns, a saloon keeper, of 4207 Racecourse avenue, may lose the sight of his right eye as a result of a peculiar accident at Valley Park Sunday.

With a number of companions he went to Valley Park to swim in the Meramec River. Burns and another club member joined hands and Thomas Dell stood on their wrists and dived into the water.

As Dell plunged headlong into the river his foot struck Burns' eye, a toe nail cutting the eyeball.

Burns was taken to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium. Surgeons there performed an extremely delicate operation of stitching the wounds in the eyeball. They said there was a slight chance that the eye might be saved.

CORONER, AS SHERIFF, IMPANELS A JURY

Padberg Acts in Case of Deputy John Nickel Accused of Receiving Stolen Property.

Coroner Padberg acted as Sheriff, Monday, a legal duty rarely exercised by the Coroner of St. Louis, in the impaneling of jurors to try John Nickel, a Deputy Sheriff, in Judge Jones' court.

Nickel is charged with receiving stolen property, on the testimony of William Wedley, a negro, accused of burglary. Wedley told the police he disposed of some stolen jewelry through Nickel.

Because Nickel is one of his subordinates and appointees, Sheriff Dickman was disqualified from acting in the case, in the opinion of Circuit Attorney Harvey, who asked that the court empower the Coroner to act as Sheriff. This request was granted, and the Coroner summoned Deputy Coroners Fath and Furlong to take charge of the grand jury panel with him.

ANOTHER BENEFIT NOW ANNOUNCED TO SAVE THE BABIES

In addition to the Pure Milk Fund benefit performance of "Witchcraft in Salem" at the Jewish Alliance Hall, 501 Carr street, on Tuesday evening, the performance of "The District School" at the Delmar Garden Theater on Wednesday evening and at the Princess Theater on Friday evening, and the performance of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" at the Shendadoh Theater on Saturday, July 11, all by juvenile companies, the Girls of Flad Avenue, Flora known, began their fine service to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund seven years ago. Many of them have grown up in this service and their organization now includes other girls of Flora boulevard, Cleveland and Castleman avenues.

Last summer they gave a Pure Milk Fund benefit entertainment which, at an admission price of 10 cents, realized the big total of $105 with which to save the tenement babies. Rev. Father James O'Brien, pastor of St. Margaret's Church, kindly has donated the use of the hall for Thursday's entertainment.

SENATOR NASH TO PLAY SHORT FOR CARDS NEXT WEEK

Massachusetts Law-Maker Will Report to Manager Huggins in a Few Days.

By W. J. O'Connor.

In these days of war it is very essential that all well-organized ball clubs have a battery of legal talent. Almost any minute a club may be obliged to jump into court and ask for an injunction.

President Britton of the Cardinals is fortifying himself for all emergencies. He has an expert lawyer (Miller Huggins) on second base at the present writing, but he's not satisfied. He hopes within a week to show a full-fledged Senator at short, a duly elected legislator from the State of Massachusetts.

Senator Nash is the newcomer-Senator Kenneth Nash of Waterbury. The Hon. Nash has been busy investigating the devious financial affairs of the Boston Red Sox. He has written a bill which will do the senatorial toga no later than Tuesday and start West to take up the more engrossing business of baseball.

Law-Making a Sideline.

Nash is a shortstop when the law-making business is in. He played short around the New England League last year and made such a reputation that he was the popular choice for the Senate from Waterbury. He's coming West now to exploit himself in the big leagues, and if he can hit .300 he will climb higher on the political ladder.

Nash, like the fond mother of every free-born American citizen, thinks her son Kenneth some day may be President of the U. S. A. All Kenneth wants to do before announcing his candidacy for the White House is to get the reputation of being a good pitcher. He is succeeding in doing this. He's got recognition from "Who's Who" and other catalogues devoted exclusively to the world's high-brows.

Boston Deal Is Off.

Manager Huggins Monday declared that a deal which he had pending with the Boston Braves had been declared off. "I need another pitcher," declared Huggins Monday. "I had hoped of getting one from Boston. However, I couldn't reach an agreement with the Braves, and I guess the matter is permanently dropped."

One more first-class pitcher would surely round out a pennant contender for the Cardinals manager. Huggins wants to get the best base-running team in the National League already, while his men are hitting timely although not copiously.

Hug always has been strong for speed on the top-pat. Himself one of the greatest base-runners in the National League, he has been known to lead his club with other speeders who will go out and steal a run, such as Cozy Dolan did Sunday. Huggins, however, is a little more conservative. He is in the box score daily now because he can move around the bases. This exhibition Sunday when he scored from third while Butler was being tossed out by the pitcher, proved the wisdom of Huggins' judgment in keeping the Oshkosh error in the game.

The Cardinals are well equipped for emergency shifts. Hug has considerable reserve strength because Jack Miller can play first or second, Magee can play third position on the infield or in the outfield, while Cather, Whittle and Cruise make worthy short-term substitutes.

That the pitching strength isn't there since Robinson cracked, Perfit, Grier, Doak and Salles have been going nicely, but too often. Hug is obliged to use Salles to save a game that he can't win. His other pitchers threaten to stick off.

Rickeyless Browns Beaten; Should Have Won 2 Games Jimmy Austin Spiked

Without a Manager Browns Suffer Setback at Outset of Long Campaign Away From Home--Team Will Show at Cleveland Today.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., June 29.—The Browns' peppy third sacker and Sunday manager, Jimmy Austin, will be lost to the team for almost a week as a result of being spiked on the ankle in the tenth inning of the opening game with the White Sox in Chicago, yesterday.

The wound is an inch long, and about a half inch deep, causing Austin to limp badly. Ivan Howard will substitute for him in the Sox line-up.

Austin's injury hurt, but not nearly so much as the two defeats dealt out by the Browns in Chicago yesterday. 'Twas a gloomy group of athletes that reported a tale of ill-luck to Manager Branch Rickey on their meeting here this morning. Two thrilling contests were lost to the White Sox yesterday, and the other, 3 to 2 in the same number of runs. THE TWO GAMES SHOULD HAVE BEEN WON.

Rickey Missed Double Defeat.

Rickey missed the games. He did not accompany the club to the Windy City as he does not attend games on Sunday. He came here this morning from Louisville where he spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Rickey.

James should have won 1-0 in the regulation number of rounds in the first. The Browns scored the only earned run by a score of 2 to 0. The Sox came to bat in the bottom of the first and Clyde Wares' squeeze.

The two errors and James' wild pitch in the tenth, which let in the winning run, were the only mistakes of the game. Rickey pitched a good game, but had one earned run chalked up against him. James had none. But the Sox won in the ninth.

Second a Pitching Duel.

It was Carl Wellman against Eddie Cicotte most of the way in the second. For eight innings the Sox couldn't get

Chicago Fans Cheer Browns' Stars; Rickeyites Attract 15,000 Crowd

THEY were two good games and offered the 15,000 crowd many a thrill. The most noticeable feature during the game-to Chicago baseball experts--was the fact that a team from St. Louis, the town that has been hitting timely although not copiously.

Hug always has been strong for speed on the top-pat. Himself one of the greatest base-runners in the National League, he has been known to lead his club with other speeders who will go out and steal a run, such as Cozy Dolan did Sunday. Huggins, however, is a little more conservative. He is in the box score daily now because he can move around the bases. This exhibition Sunday when he scored from third while Butler was being tossed out by the pitcher, proved the wisdom of Huggins' judgment in keeping the Oshkosh error in the game.

The Browns had everyone sitting up and taking notice. As Bill James strode across the field after uncorking his big gun, the crowd roared. He had an ovation for the big right-hander. The fans stood up and cheered him as he pitched. There were also cheers for Walker, Shottel and Lewis. The Cardinals are well equipped for emergency shifts. Hug has considerable reserve strength because Jack Miller can play first or second, Magee can play third position on the infield or in the outfield, while Cather, Whittle and Cruise make worthy short-term substitutes.

That the pitching strength isn't there since Robinson cracked, Perfit, Grier, Doak and Salles have been going nicely, but too often. Hug is obliged to use Salles to save a game that he can't win. His other pitchers threaten to stick off.

Departing from St. Louis in the sweltering heat Saturday night, the Browns ran into chilly weather in Chicago yesterday. It was that chilly that many Rickeyites were in evidence. The change was an agreeable one, was evident from the amount of pepper displayed by the players in practice and during the games.

Kawfies May Be Transferred.

There is a rumor afloat that the Kansas City club, in the Federal League, is to be transferred to some other city where it is hoped Federal League baseball will be better supported. It is said that a clique of Philadelphia moneyed men is ready to finance a club in Quakertown. This would make a more compact circuit.

Joe Sudden, the veteran catcher, who has been coaching the pitchers, is with the Browns. He is a big, burly fellow, and he is hoped Federal League baseball will be better supported. It is said that a clique of Philadelphia moneyed men is ready to finance a club in Quakertown. This would make a more compact circuit.

Ed Walsh, the former "Iron Man" of the Sox, is up with his mates on the bench. He is a big, burly fellow, and he is hoped Federal League baseball will be better supported. BY L.C. DAVIS.

Horse and—

W made the Cubs resemble dubs. Alas! 'twas ever thus; The Cubs returned the compliment, and did the same to us.

Due to the fact that the Terrific didn't play a double-header, the various and sundry baseball teams representing Chicago only took four out of five games from St. Louis Sunday.

"Red" Corriden didn't attempt to score from third on an infield rap, on which Bresnahan nearly made first. And at that Roger hasn't done a hundred in even time for, so, these many moons.

When Roger turned around and saw "Red" still standing on third he stood in his tracks and marveled. After taking a second look to assure himself that he eyes did not deceive him, the Duke slowly wended his way to the bench, still marveling.

Father Roger. "You are fat, Father Roger," remarked the young man, "You must weigh two hundred, at least. Pray tell me the reason, as plain as you can. Why your averdupe has increased."

"In the days of my youth," Father Roger replied, "I struggled and toiled like a dog; But I've been on the port, since I played in New York. And now I'm as fat as a hog."

Eddie Limberg's impressive defeat of our crack local golfer was indicative that he is anything but a "cheese" champion.

In France. J. Morrison led Moran a merry dance. The white man didn't have a ray chance. It really served him right. For engaging in the fight—Here he thought he will both remain in France.

A married woman coyly took a glance at Frank Moran, and up to him did she. She kissed him on the map and said: "You are a very funny thing in France."

Tommy Leach got five hits out of six times up. Pretty fair for an old man.

The Way of It. The Browns made seven blunders. The Sox made 20 raps. Defeated Rickey's chaps.

The Cards entertained a "crowd of about 15,000" without stretching the ropes. Which indicates that the S. O. proposition has fallen into disfavor.

There is nothing so effective in fattening up a ball player as winning games.

Umpire Bill Klem must be going back. Bill got out the can for the first time this year and attached it to Helme Zink.

Dick Croker to Back Jim Coffey in Battle Against Jack Johnson

NEW YORK, June 29.—GIBSON received a cablegram today from Jim Coffey, the "Dublin Giant" who is still in Ireland, stating that Richard Croker, former mayor of New York, has offered to back him in a fight with Jack Johnson.

Johnson's case is particularly alluring. In 1908, up to the month of December, Jack was just a "bust" fourth-rate black and white man and each worth a $2,000 purse. Some smile that Dame Fortune is throwing on the big prize. It makes one think almost anybody has a look in with the lady, if he can once flash her attention.

WRA'S COLUMN

DAME FORTUNE is not only a scribe and flirtations old girl, but she isn't at all particular on whom she smiles. Witness the case of her outrageous smirking at Jack Johnson, a vain, ignorant, immoral negro who was, 12 years ago, a levee roustabout at Galveston.

For all that he has done for the world since, Johnson might have remained one yet. Fortune picked him out and here he is today on the highway to a second accumulation of wealth.

It's small wonder that men seek fortune in the prize ring, today, despite all the drawbacks connected with the game. One glance at the case of John Arthur Johnson and his side-step the cotton bales and the harvest fields and run for the training camp.

150 NEW HAZARDS ARE PLANNED FOR GLEN ECHO LINKS

Changes in Local Course Will Make it Most Difficult in the Country.

If the local golfing contingent, which is to leave for Grand Rapids to play in the Western golf tournament next month, carries out plans for bringing the 1918 tournament to St. Louis, the Chicago and other Western stars will play on the most difficult course in the country.

Ten local stars will depart for the Michigan town in the middle part of July in order to make a bid to bring the next championships to the Glen Echo course.

"Before the season is over, the Glen Echo links will be the most difficult and without a doubt the best course in the country. This statement was made recently by Jesse Carleton, president of the club. Mr. Carleton further stated:

"When Harry Vardon played here last summer he claimed that ours was the best links he had played in the United States. However, he pointed out many changes. These we intend to remedy. We will place about 150 bunkers, pits and traps on the course, in such positions that good shots will not be penalized. But it will take a tough golfer to complete the round in less than an eighty."

Remedy for "Hook" Driving. William Duffy, the club professional, when questioned said: "The improvement on the course will remedy a fault of the local and, in fact, American golfers, that the English players have lately been complaining. This is the tendency to hook their drives. In England bunkers and pits line both sides of the lane and if a player drives other than straight at an arrow he finds himself in 'hot water.' We intend to give the players very little leeway in their drives. We shall make the course the hardest course to play in the land."

Many of the Glen Echo players have played the course. Most of some time, but the expense held the project back. Now, however, as it is in favor of it, the Williams club greenskeeper, stated that work would begin for a course in two weeks at the most. It will not be completed until the end of the summer.

Even Mordecai Brown Is Unable to Win for Retrograding Terriers

The last time the Terriers won a game, Manager Mordecai Brown adorned the keyhole and quite naturally he was regarded as the "winning" pitcher. However, the Moub for was knocked from his pedestal Sunday when the Chiefs collected five hits and seven runs at his expense, winning the final game of the series. About 500 fans viewed the slaughter.

FAIR EARLY SHOWERS
LATE IN PRESENT WEEK
Moderate temperature to prevail over greater portion of country.
WASHINGTON, June 28.—Except for showers early in the week in New England and the Middle Atlantic States, fair and warm weather is forecast for the first half of the present week over most of the country.
"Over the extreme northwestern portion of the country from the Dakotas westward," says the Weather Bureau's bulletin, "the weather probably will be unsettled and showery. After the middle of the week with somewhat higher temperatures over the middle and southern districts west of the Rocky Mountains, the central plains, the Southwest, the Gulf states and the Ohio Valley only fair weather will prevail during the week, with continued high temperatures to the southward and with rising temperatures over the central districts by the middle of the week."
In the Missouri and the upper Mississippi valleys and the lake region fair weather with moderate temperatures will prevail. The first half of the week will be followed by the second half, with more moderate temperatures over the Middle Atlantic States until toward the end of the week, when showers are indicated with rising temperatures.
The Weather Bureau says the high temperatures will continue, with occasional relief through local thunderstorms.

"Bill"

By PAUL WEST.

In Which Bill and Izzy Discover the Building Has a Roof Garden, and Put It Out of Business Through an Unfortunate Occurrence.

When Bill joins the elite of the building on their summer roof garden they plainly show him that they love him not. Yet, inconsistent as it may seem, their feelings are much hurt when, for the space of a few hours, he completely ignores their existence.

"FLOOZY!" I says Izzy. "You big book-keeper o' ourn what's settin' over there agen th' ravin'. Like as not he'd fling me over."

"He would, would he?" I says. "Ain't he married?"

"Sure he is," says Izzy. "But he's brave, all th' same, an' wouldn't stop at takkin' th' two o' us."

"Mebbe he wouldn't," I says. "But as that his wife he's sharin' that hunk o' pie wid'?"

"I'm wise," says Izzy. "Tis th' type-tickler from th' Song-Tong Clection Agency. He's wouldn't dare say a word to me! Come on!"

"So t'rough th' door we breezed, as fresh as a couple o' sweet v'lets, wid our hats in our fists, dolin' th' high-petee as."

"Hare youse, gent's an' dames!" I says. "Welcome to our club," says Izzy. "Oh, fer heavin's sake!" says Ethel. "Lookit 'round an' appottin' us." "Lookit what's blowed in!" she says. "G'wan down now," she says. "An' tell th' Boss we're out!"

"S that so?" I says. "Yea," says a big red-headed guy what works in th' 'nec' office to ourn an' was allus rubberin' 'round our dump. "Yea," he says. "G'wan down or I'll drop th' two o' youse offen th' roof an' spatter youse on th' sidewalk!"

"That would be a shame," I says. "O' course," I says. "We wouldn't want no introod or anytin' like that, only I come up fer to tell youse," I says. "Ethel, 'they might be a telephone message to youse this afternoon,'" I says. "On a certin party," meaning Ed Fink, her husband.

"Oh, y' impidint little soda blakit!" she says, gettin' redder 'n a 3-cent stamp. "Leave him to me," says Izzy. "A couple o' ginks together, 'an' his brains'll be dashed out on th' pave!"

But Ethel's wise to what I meant. "Aw, leave th' two o' them be," she says. "They ain't such bad little monkeys, only kinder fresh. G'wan over th' upper side o' th' roof," she says to me. "An' see how pretty it looks."

"Th' scen'ry this side suits us, don't it, Shrimp?" says Izzy, hoppin' up on th' ledge near th' bookkeeper outen his dump. "We're as welcome as money from Germany, ain't we, Ludwig?" he says to him.

"Aw, shut up!" says th' bookkeeper. "I'll see youse later in th' office." "Don't mind him, Shrimp," says Izzy. "He's a sissy monkey." "However," he says, "though 'tis easy to see they're dyin' fer to have us remain, we'll have ter be goin'." "That's right," I says. "Th' club'll be wonderin' why we ain't there fer lunch."

"Wait, if that ain't th' dandiest gags!" says Izzy whin we're downstairs, ballin' it fer th' Only Harry's fer our feed. "Wait till we put th' gang on," he says. "We'll put no gang on," I says. "Why would we?" Diden youse take a good peek 'round?" he says. "T'would be a fine place fer to toss th' ball a bit, an' if we get enough o' th' bunch up wid us we could easy rush them stenog an' booksepers out. We'd make it so cheap they'd be only too glad to go sum'er else."

"Yea," I says. "An' put th' Soop know to us bein' up there. An' youse know what he'd be doin'." "That's right," says Izzy.

I never seen Ethel so sore in me life as whin she come down from th' roof.

"I might o' knowed youse'd spoil it all," she says. "Jus' whin some o' us hapins to tink o' th' place fer a little airin', in youse butt an' sour th' milk! I want youse t' understand," she says, gettin' steam up. "We don't want youse up there agen! Positively some o' th' genmun couldn't hardly keep their han's offen youse as it was," she says. "No!" I says. "They looked like a bunch o' dips that's steal anytin' vallyble," I says. "Be th' way," I says, "what's Ed's phone number?" I says. "I was tinkin' o' astin' him down fer to have lunch wid me tomorrow."

"A suspicious little pill!" she says. "Ed Fink is knowed that genmun all his life!" "A right!" I says. "I ain't sayin' nuttin'." "Well," she says, "if youse an' yer frien' Izzy keep it offen th' rest o' yer disrepp'tible gang o' hoodlums yer welcome!"

"Only," she says, "do as I say, an' don't breathe a word. Even th' Soop ain't on!"

So th' next day me an' Izzy filled our kicks wid lunch an' went up. I couldn't go so fur as to say they wanted to kiss us whin we showed up, but they didn't say nuttin', an' things was goin' all right till Izzy pulls out a ball an' him an' me begin flingin' it 'round.

"Cut that out, youse kids!" some feller says. "Or g'wan down! This ain't no rough house!" "Thin mind yer own alle!" says Izzy. "Or we'll make it wain."

So he flings th' ball at me, but it misses an' lands wan o' th' stenog on th' ear, an' she lets out a holler. That gets th' guy wid her mad, an' he comes fer us. We beat it. When we get th' upper side o' th' door somebody fastens it.

"Hey, youse big stuffs!" I hollers, bangin' th' door. "Give us back that ball!" "Yea," says Izzy. "An' ha! me lunch is up there. I wasn't 'tough."

All o' a suddint I see they're a bolt on this side too, so I give it a push. "A right!" I hollers t'rough th' key-hole. "Keep us out, then! But th' time'll come whin youse'll waight Foude's spoke more pleasant to a couple o' inner-cent office byers. Come on, Izzy," I says. "We ain't wanted here."

"Gee!" he says whin we go downstairs. "Did youse look 'em in?" "I sure did," I says. "Twid 'em good fer to leave 'em there a bit. Byrme by we'll go up an' leave 'em out."

But I ain't hardly got downstairs whin th' Boss says to me: "Take this here note," he says, "an' wait fer an answer, an' don't come back tellin' me th' man ain't in."

"An' by th' way," he says, "where's Miss Jackson?" "She'll be back soon, Boss, I guess," I says. "I'll go up to th' roof an' leave her out now. But as I'm startin' out he says: 'Hurry wid that note, now, 'tis a matter o' life an' death,' so I ducks quick. What's mebbe fifteen or twenty minutes fer them fresh loaves up on th' roof?"

"Well, youse know how thim things go wid a busy man. Be th' time I got over to where I was goin' I'd forgot all about th' gang on th' roof o' our dump, an' what wid wan t'ing an' anudder, I kinder lost track o' th' time. Whin I landed in our office it's near 4 o'clock an' rainin' like blazes."

"Well, fer th' love o' Mike!" says the Boss. "I was jus' about to telephone to see what kep' youse. But mebbe, as youse finally found yer own way back, youse chanst fer to run across Miss Jackson. Th' sunlight o' our office has been remis in her dooties. An' what's more," he says, "they's a mysterious disappearance among adders 'round th' buildin', an'—answer that," he says, th' phone ju's ringin'.

I done so. It's Mister O'Brien, Izzy's boss.

"Is this Mister Hadley's office?" "Bye!" he says. "Yea, sir," I says. "Well," he says, "my bookkeeper's been missin' sence lunch time, an' says, an' whin I ast Izzy, if he had seen him he says no, but mebbe youse had. What about it?"

"Well, Mister O'Brien," I says, "I—"

"Gimme that phone!" th' Boss says, grabbin' it. "What's this, O'Brien?" he says. Then he listens an' turns 'round at me. "Well," he says, "come across! Where's Ethel an' th' rest? Did youse and Izzy murder 'em all? If so, where are their bodies?"

"Well, I'm jus' goin' ter spill th' whole story whin th' door bu'st open an' in comes Ethel, soaked t'rough wid th' rain, held up by th' Soop. "That's him!" she says. "That's wan o' thim! They tried fer to murder us all be shuttin' us up on th' roof fer th' day!"

They Liked It.

"WELL," said Bill, "and how things in the garden, old man?"

"Oh, all right," replied Tom, "but the beasty bugs, you know, are playing the dickens with my radishes."

"Is that so?" remarked Bill, who rather fancied himself as a gardener. "Why don't you try salt? You put some salt down, and you can take it from me, you won't be troubled by bugs any more."

Tom didn't think much of the remedy, but abstained from passing comment, until, some weeks later, the two friends met again. Then, in reply to his friend's inquiry, Tom exclaimed:

"Salt! Did I try salt? I should just think I did; and d'you know what happened? Why, when I got up next morning there were those fat, great bugs pulling up the radishes by the roots, diggin' them in the salt and eating them!"

rain to down! Oh! I'm chilled t'rough!"

"What's it all, anyhow?" th' Boss says. "I dunno yit," says th' Soop. "All I know is I was out all th' afternoon, an' jus' now the soop o' th' sky more buildin' phomes me they's a bunch shp'wrecked onto our roof, so I goes in an' finds a lot o' imple'yes near water-logged wid th' rain. An' whin I ast who took 'em up there, they says 'toss yer bye an' Izzy Kats.'"

"They're liars!" I says. "Anyhow, Mister Hadley," says Ethel, "I insist his bein' arrested. Oh, wait till I see me husband about it."

"Yea?" I says. "Wait till I do," I gimme a look.

"Aw, well," she says, "on s'cond t'oughts, I'll have mercy on th' miserable little infant. Don't fire him, Mister Hadley."

An' when th' Boss heard th' story he didn't.
